

Event Series Overview

EpicConf is an online event series for creative and curious people who understand that yesterday's methods no longer work, and if we work together, we can build epic things better than before. With this platform, we're looking to create a space where people can share, learn, and explore new ideas and possibilities. We want to create positive, empowering events that re-energize us all as we figure out our way forward.

Attendee Demographics

This program is created for boots-on-the-ground Marketing practitioners and an "upper-right hand quadrant" startup founders who are looking for creative, community driven, future-looking ways to solve the implicit challenges of marketing and selling software during the COVID-19 pandemic. Beyond that, they see the pandemic as an opportunity to rethink all facets of marketing and are curious and motivated to make something better for everyone.
